In a Connected World, Security Has to Be Part of the Architecture.

One that keeps out the bad, but keeps the door open. Web-enabled applications have opened new doors to productivity. And aggression. Application-level attacks come unannounced in networked traffic. Productivity can stop without warning.

Thankfully, there's Radware APSolute™, the integrated application delivery solution for networked and web-enabled applications.

APSolute's built-in intrusion prevention and Denial of Service protection ensure fast, reliable business continuity and transaction completion, even when under attack – with no security/performance tradeoff.

And as business needs change, APSolute's modular, scalable application-smart architecture lets you customize the ideal mix of performance and security features.
